Dear Askville Community,

After 7 years, we have made the difficult decision to shut down the Askville site. This decision is made especially hard because of our wonderful community members, many of whom have been here since we opened our doors. We shut down the site on Friday October 25th, 5pm PT.

The Askville team really appreciates your engagement, and we could not have asked for a better community. You really have been the best.

Sincerely,
The Askville team

The Psychology of Influence

An aerial, high-angle photograph of a vast, brightly lit warehouse. The floor is filled with hundreds of long, parallel aisles. Each aisle is densely packed with wooden pallets, each carrying a large stack of cardboard boxes. The boxes vary in size and color, including brown, white, and some with blue or green markings. The perspective is from a high vantage point, looking down the length of the warehouse, which recedes into the distance. The ceiling is high, with visible structural steel beams and large windows or skylights that provide ample natural light. The overall impression is one of immense scale and organized chaos. In the center of the image, the text "Kindle = eBook?" is overlaid in a large, black, sans-serif font. The text is centered horizontally and vertically, with a small orange square positioned between the equals sign and the word "eBook".
